TN006 Artwork - Original Art
Original Oil on Belgium Linen

John Banovich, a 15 year Safari Club International donor of Banovich Fine Art Gallery has donated an Original Oil on Belgium Linen titled 'Mafuta Mvulana' (Swahili for Fat Boy). Measuring 20-in. by 28-in., this painting depicts an old leopard with an attitude. Leopards are known for being elusive, solitary and largely nocturnal. It's first light, and this old leopard perched in his tree shows us a sign reading 'do not disturb.' He has seen the best and worst of Africa. His aggressive disposition and total disdain for the viewer's presence is evidenced in his fixated, angry green eyes. In reflection of his experience with the leopard, John said, 'Like all leopards he could be most unpredictable and, judging by his attitude at the time, he decided I had overstayed my visit and I was in complete congruence.' TN009 Artwork - Original Art
Original Oil on Canvas Titled 'Ancient Pathways'

Original oil on canvas titled 'Ancient Pathways,' donated by Kobus Moller Studios, LLC. Kobus truly is one of the best artists in revealing the very heartbeat of Africa on canvas. During his frequent trips to the bush to study and photograph wildlife, he often finds himself close enough to an animal to vividly observe the flare of his nostrils, the slight tensing of his muscles, and the expression in his eyes. Inspired by the greatest ARTIST of all time, the CREATOR of the universe, Kobus is in a constant struggle to perfect the art of defining his awe of creation by combining the synergy of his experiences in the bush with the widest possible variety of use of his chosen media. Emphasizing that each element involved carries equal weight in its own right, he gently persuades the entire process into a unity, thereby giving 'life' to the animals in his work. In creating a relationship between tangibility and sight, his technique combines light, line, texture and form on canvas. Every painting uncompromisingly expresses his honest emotion and inherent love for nature, and ultimately for God who created it all for our gratification. Size: 36-in. x 60-in.
